

Gfp 463TH delivers an impressive four year track record

Based on a recommendation from a trusted friend, Jack Custeau was one of the first to own a 463TH Top Heat Laminator in 2011. Despite being unfamiliar with the Gfp brand at the time, he liked the way it grew his bottom line. Today he lives near Boise, Idaho, where he owns and operates Boise Auto Wraps. And after four years, he is still happy that he made the choice he did.

“We primarily use the machine for laminating pressure-sensitive vehicle graphics,” says Custeau. “Because of the take-up reel on the 463TH, one person can run 50-70 feet at a time without stopping. Just align it properly and the equipment runs true.

“There’s a lot to like about the 463TH. It’s a solid money maker. In this business I need to make the most of my crew. Having to continuously start and stop production wastes time. With this unit, one operator can create long runs of wraps and vinyl signage.

“I want equipment I can count on everyday. The 463TH has been consistently reliable since I’ve owned it. It’s easy to use, takes up less space than other equipment, and gives my customers quality graphics. It works every bit as well as equipment that costs twice as much. I’m really happy with this unit.”
