

Small printing company gets a big return on a minimal investment

"I'm a rookie at producing posters, banners and mounting. I used to job that work out because I didn't have the equipment or the experience to do it. But I lost time, money and control of turnaround doing that. Not fun when you're a control freak like me. If our source was slow in getting work done, we got blamed. Eventually we lost those jobs altogether because we couldn't compete.

Then I got the big dog - the Gfp 463 Laminator.

It's made an unbelievable difference in our business because it's everything we need - user friendly, easy for one person to load, no learning curve and built like a tank.

It's fabulous, especially for mounting. It cranks work through like a rocket.

Our space is limited. Moving equipment easily on wheels is a big deal for us. So is the fact we can use any electrical outlet. Other laminators I looked at had a higher price tag, and the ones in this price range didn't measure up.

As an owner I wear many hats. It's stressful keeping costs and labor down when you're trying to turn out a lot of quality work. Why would I spend more for equipment that can't do what the 463 can do?

This decision was a no brainer for me. Payback is quick and my stress level is way down. I can't recommend the 463 enough. It's changed my business."

Pat Hunt, Owner
Hunt Printing & Graphics
Countryside, Illinois